Membership

The Saskatchewan North Chapter

The Saskatchewan North Chapter of the Society of Graphic Designers of Canada (GDC SKN) represents graphic designers who reside and work north of Davidson, Saskatchewan. The Saskatchewan Chapter of the GDC was founded in 1992. While recognized as one Chapter with a common set of by-laws, in actual practice, GDC/SK operated with separate northern and southern executives that were financially independent for a number of years. In 2004, it became official, as GDC SKN and GDC SKS were granted full Chapter status.

GDC SKN's goals are to develop a positive identity for the Graphic Design profession in northern Saskatchewan, by promoting and actively supporting higher standards of design, by fostering interaction and dialogue, and by representing the Society's concerns and interests to the general public, to government, and to industry.

In addition to involvement with the national body, GDC SKN carries out programs of regional interest and significance.

The National Society

Founded in Toronto in 1956 as the Society of Typographic Designers of Canada, the Society evolved into a national association by 1974 and was granted a Federal Charter in 1976.

Like all professional associations, the GDC is concerned with standards of professional conduct, practice and integrity; with education and professional development, and with information about the graphic design profession and those engaged in it.

Its objectives are to secure and maintain a defined, recognized and competent body of graphic designers and to promote high standards of graphic design for the benefit of Canadian industry, commerce, public service and the public. The significance of these objectives for Canada's standing as a trading nation and for the quality of our environment cannot be over-emphasized. In private practice or salaried employment, in education or public service, its members subscribe to the objectives, goals and code of conduct of the Society and are concerned with design as a way of life and livelihood.

The Status of Professional Membership

Fellowship

FGDC is awarded by the National Society to a professional graphic designer who, by accomplishment or influence, has made a major contribution to graphic design in Canada. Fellowship is the highest honour that can be bestowed by the Society. FGDC confers full voting rights in the National Society and the Chapter, and fellowship may be conferred as an honour under special circumstances (Hon. FGDC).

Professional Membership

MGDC is awarded at the Chapter level to a practicing professional graphic designer, living in Canada or who is a Canadian citizen, whose work and professional integrity are of acceptable standards; or who has received professional status in a province which, through legislation, registers graphic designers; or is engaged in design education or design administration as a full-time activity within Canada; and in all cases, has completed at least seven years, in total, of combined graphic design education and professional practice.

The status entails a Portfolio Review, confers full voting rights in the Chapter and contributes to the voice of the Chapter in the National Society.

Licentiate Membership

LGDC is awarded at the Chapter level to a practicing professional graphic designer, living and working in Canada or who is a Canadian citizen, whose work and professional integrity are of acceptable standards, or has successfully completed an approved program of studies in graphic design and has entered into professional practice of graphic design and, in either case, has completed at least five years and less than seven years, in total, of combined graphic design education and professional practice

The status entails a Portfolio Review, confers full voting rights in the Chapter and contributes to the voice of the Chapter in the National Society.

Retired

(Ret.) is awarded to any Professional or Fellow who is no longer engaged in design as a full-time activity.

The Status of
General Membership

The status of General Membership is made available by the Society in order to encourage the involvement of persons whose opinions are valued by the professional graphic design community.

While Professional Members are requested to employ their GDC status initials with their names in order to promote the profession, Society and Chapter; General Members are not so required.

General Membership statuses do not entail a portfolio review, and do not confer a vote in formal Chapter affairs, although the Member has most of the privileges granted Professional Members and the Chapter intends that they will have ample opportunity to express their views on Chapter business.

In addition, materials such as publications, distributed as a benefit of membership, will also be received by General Members.

Associate Membership

Awarded to a practicing designer, other professional, student or business person engaged in a field related to graphic design.

Graduate Membership

Awarded to an individual who has graduated from an approved program of studies in graphic design within the previous three years.

Student Membership

Awarded to an individual attending a program of studies in graphic design at an academic institution recognized by the Chapter.

Sponsor*

Awarded to an individual, corporation, organization, firm, establishment or society who furthers the objectives and general goals of the GDC by making an annual financial and/or in kind contribution to the Society. The number of representatives are subject to individual Chapter bylaws.

Patron Sponsor

Awarded to an individual, corporation, organization, firm, establishment or society who furthers the objectives and general goals of the GDC through a financial endowment, substantial financial contribution or major gift.

Portfolio Review

Criteria

The measure of professional design, for the purposes of the acceptance of an Applicant's portfolio as recommendation of professional status in the Saskatchewan Chapter will be:

1. not based upon "Style", as this is subjective, except insofar as it is considered that the specific style employed is at conflict with what is judged to be good strategy in appealing to the target audience;
2. demonstrative of a creative concept of merit, judged likely to appeal to the target audience in a way likely to achieve the client's desired ends;
3. demonstrative of an intelligent application of available resources, with due weight given to the cost of work relative to the benefit the client may be expected to receive; in this area particular attention must be given to the premise that a measure of design is that the effective application of limited production resources can be indicative of a high level of design ability;
4. demonstrative of a successful application of design to the improvement of the client's interests;
5. not containing material of a nature considered to be demeaning to any person or group towards which prejudice is generally not permitted in our culture;
6. not containing any plagiarism of the work of others.

In the final analysis, the decision of the Portfolio Review Committee will be made in an objective frame of mind, and they will take every care possible to ensure that they have dealt fairly with the applicant, but also with the high standards to which the chapter subscribes.
